

RUSSIAN-UKRAINIAN WAR: REGIONAL & GLOBAL CONSEQUENCES

WEBINAR

Thursday, April 21, 2022 15:00 GMT

Jean Monnet Atlantic Network 2.0

Moderator

Speakers

Leonardo Neves
Researcher at FGV IJU

Abdelaaziz Ait Ali
Manager - Economics, PCNS

Frank Mattheis
Post-Doc Research
Fellow, ULB

Lorena Ruano
Professor of International Relations, CIDE

Eduard Soler
Senior Research
Fellow, CIDOB

Carlos Gaspar
Senior Researcher,
IPRI NOVA

With the support of the Erasmus+ Programme
of the European Union

Jean Monnet Network on Atlantic Studies 2.0

organizes an ad hoc webinar on:

Russian-Ukrainian war: Regional & Global consequences

With the support of the Erasmus+ Programme
of the European Union

Brief | Agenda | Biographies

April 21st, 2022

15h00-17h00 GMT

Policy Center for the New South
Platform: Zoom

Live-Stream (Facebook, YouTube, Twitter)

Brief

On February 24, 2022, Russia launched a military action in Ukraine. This operation and subsequent events is having a global impact, with far-reaching political and economic implications. In the short term, the conflict will affect the global economy through three main channels: financial markets, commodity prices and supply chain disruptions. But in the long run, implications are complex to gauge and the West is heading to a decoupling from Russia on several fronts. This webinar aims to better understand the economic and political consequences of the war on the world and the Southern countries and their population.

- What are the major impacts to be expected regarding the spiraling of energy prices taking into account the balance of gains and losses?
- Will the crisis accentuate the world division between the two superpowers?
- Which evolutions in the European Union and its external relations?

Agenda

Russian-Ukrainian war: Regional & Global consequences

15h00 – 16h30 GMT

15h00 – 16h00

Panel of discussion

Chair

Leonardo Neves, Researcher, FGV IJU

Speakers

Abdelaaziz Ait Ali, Manager – Economics research department, PCNS

Frank Mattheis, Research Fellow, ULB

Lorena Ruano, Professor of International Relations, CIDE

Eduard Soler, Senior Research Fellow, CIDOB

Carlos Gaspar, Senior Researcher, IPRI NOVA